Construction Enquirer

Plant

Piling rig topples in Battersea

Grant Prior 11 years ago

St George has launched an investigation after a piling rig toppled over on its Battersea Reach site in London.

A local resident told the Wandsworth Guardian that the machine fell over on Sunday after the ground underneath gave way.

A spokesman for St George said: “There were no injuries and the matter has been reported to the Health and Safety Executive.

“St George can make no further comment until the investigation has been undertaken.”

Written by Grant Prior 11 years ago